

ARTSTONE

Artstone is a new composite system made of stone material that finds its ideal collocation in facing, staircases, flooring or tops, allowing to realize various and artistic furnishing accessories.

This new way of understanding the stone perfectly goes well with the present needs of creative design oriented towards modernism and therefore ideal to be introduced into new housing, commercial and nautical concepts.

The chromatic choice of the natural colors of the stone, combined together with a careful artistic vision, infuses sensations of warmth and harmony, which do not weigh down the spaces but create a spectacular furnishing motif, thus satisfying the most different aesthetic needs of the designers.

The design is not just a question of style or mere taste: it is a subtle alchemy that is obtained from the expert blend of different factors, from the ability to combine the needs of the market with the impulses of creativity, in a balance between form and function, aesthetics and use.

Arstone is a combination of natural stones cut into regular shapes but of various sizes, which are then assembled to form a single slab, whose thickness varies from 0.8 to 3cm.
